Dr. Ryan Madder is the Cath Lab Director and Section Chief for Interventional Cardiology and is a Clinical Associate Professor of Medicine at the Michigan State University College of Human Medicine. He has been instrumental in the study of remote access using the CorPath System completing the first in vivo remote robotics stent procedures in 2018 followed by the first simulated cases over a 5G network last November which we look forward to hearing more about. He continues to elevate the global dialogue and education on radiation safety in the cath lab, robotic PCI, and the potential for remote robotic interventions.
